A WELCOME FROM THE FOUNDER

You were hired because you can be trusted with the thing our clients value most. Not the pool — the people in it. 805 LifeGuard has served Southern California's private families, estates, and venues since 2016, and every season our reputation travels the same way: one guard, one deck, one family at a time. Starting now, that reputation travels with you.

We are a small team by design and a growing one by trajectory — five markets and counting. Around here, trust is the currency and performance is how it's earned; both get noticed, because on a team this size there is nowhere for excellence to hide. You weren't hired to fill a shift. You were hired to grow with us.

This package is the culture layer of your onboarding — who we are, how we carry ourselves, and the standard you are joining. Your offer letter and its companion documents state the terms of employment; this document states the expectations that come with the uniform.

Excellence · Discretion · Peace of Mind

"We are invited into private homes on the strength of a promise: that someone capable is watching, and that nothing about the family's life leaves with us when the shift ends. Keep that promise and everything else in this package follows naturally."

THE 805 STANDARD

Three words are conditions of every assignment, on every deck, for every client:

- Discretion — what you see and hear at a client's home stays there. No names, no details, no stories.
- Punctuality — early is on time. Your arrival is the first thing a client learns about you.
- Courteous professionalism — warm with guests, invisible when appropriate, always composed.

Venue- and property-specific protocol cards are binding on the assignments to which they apply — read yours before every engagement, and when a card and a habit disagree, the card wins.

THE FIRST RULE: EYES ON THE WATER

Everything we are paid for reduces to one discipline: dedicated, uninterrupted surveillance. When guests are in the water, you are watching the water — not a phone, not the party, not the view.

- No phones on watch. Personal devices stay stowed during active supervision, without exception.
- Scan, don't stare. Sweep your whole zone — surface, bottom, corners — about every ten seconds. Searching is active; watching is passive. Play features and shadows hide trouble — search.
- Never leave the water unattended. Coverage transfers guard-to-guard, by name, or swimmers exit.
- Rescue-ready, always. Rescue tube in hand on duty; buoy and first-aid hip pack during active guarding.
- Hold your post. Trouble outside your zone: activate the emergency action plan — never abandon your water.
- Equipment check-in. First-aid kit, AED, and access points confirmed before guests swim, every shift.

PRESENTATION & KIT

You will be photographed at beautiful homes on important days. Look like you belong there — and like exactly what you are: the professional watching the pool.

- Company presentation. 805-issued uniform, worn per the staff standard, on every shift.
- Identifiable in one glance. LIFEGUARD identification is the non-negotiable floor — a child or parent must be able to find the guard in one second, whatever a client's styling preferences.
- Deck footwear only. No denim, no cut-offs, no flip-flops.
- Polarized sunglasses. Glare can hide a swimmer just under the surface — polarized lenses cut through it. Bring a pair; on a bright deck they're rescue equipment, not style.
- Client-requested attire. Occasionally a client arranges custom event attire through the Company. If so, it is stated in the engagement terms — identification and rescue kit remain in place in every configuration.

ARRIVAL DISCIPLINE

- Text your ETA to Jasen, your team lead, when you depart; arrive with time to walk the water before guests do.
- Check in and check out on every shift — the discipline the 90-day period evaluates most closely.
- Substances: zero on shift, zero before shift — the full policy is on page 3.

WHEN THE WHISTLE BLOWS — EMERGENCY RESPONSE

- Walk the plan at check-in. Every shift starts by confirming the venue address for 911, the AED and first-aid locations, and your emergency action plan — before the first guest touches water.
- You rescue; someone calls. Assign the 911 call at check-in — a host, a second guard, a staged phone.
- After, same day: every incident and near-miss goes to Jasen, however small. We fix what we know about.

HEAT IS A JOB HAZARD — TREAT IT LIKE ONE

California treats outdoor heat as the workplace hazard it is, and so do we. These are your rights as much as your rules:

- Drink all shift. About a quart of water an hour — hydrate before you're thirsty, not after.
- Shade is yours at 80°F. So is a cool-down break whenever you need one — hand the water to your partner or call Jasen for coverage first, then take it. No permission required, ever.
- Know the signs. Cramps, headache, nausea, dizziness — call it early, for yourself or a teammate. Confusion or fainting is a 911, immediately.
- New to the heat? We watch every guard closely through their first two weeks of hot-weather work — speak up sooner, not later. Acclimatizing is part of the job, not a weakness.

WEATHER CALLS — THE 30-MINUTE RULE

- First thunder clears the water. Don't wait to see lightning — it reaches ten miles ahead of a storm.
- Thirty minutes from the last strike. Thunder or lightning restarts the clock, every time.
- The call is yours, and ownership backs it. No host, however important the day, outranks the sky. A paused party is a story; the alternative is not. Make the call, then text Jasen.

BLOOD & FIRST AID — UNIVERSAL PRECAUTIONS

- Gloves first, always. Treat all blood and body fluids as infectious — gloves live in your hip pack.
- If you're exposed: flush and wash the area immediately, then report to Jasen the same day, no exceptions — reporting protects you. The Company provides bloodborne-pathogens training and offers hepatitis B vaccination in line with the OSHA standard; details at orientation.

CLEAR HEADS ONLY — SMOKING, ALCOHOL & DRUGS

- No smoking, no vaping on assignment. Not on the deck, not at the gate, not anywhere on or in view of a client's property — from arrival to departure, without exception.
- Alcohol: zero on shift, zero before shift. Guests at a celebration may offer you a drink; the answer is a warm no, every time — they will respect you more for it.
- Drugs and impairment: what you do off the clock is yours; showing up impaired is not. No use or possession on assignment, legal or otherwise — a guard's judgment is the product; nothing that dulls it comes near the water.
- Medications that make you drowsy? Tell Jasen before the shift and we'll reassign — no stigma, no questions. That call is professionalism, not weakness.

PROVIDED BY THE COMPANY — AT NO CHARGE

Before your first assignment you will be issued the full 805 LifeGuard uniform and rescue kit — Company-provided, no cost to you:

- Branded 805 LifeGuard shirt — worn on every shift, per the staff standard.
- Branded guard shorts — the red short you see on every 805 deck.
- Branded one-piece swimsuit — issued to female guards.
- Rescue buoy — in hand whenever you are on duty.
- First-aid kit — carried during active water supervision.
- Whistle — on your person, every shift.
- Branded hat — sun protection in 805 colors, part of the on-deck standard.

- Sizing. Email your sizes — shirt, shorts, and swimsuit if applicable — to jasper@805lifeguard.com with the subject “Sizing — Your Name” — your bio email is a fine place for them — so your kit is ready and waiting before day one.
- Footwear. Provide your own secure, non-slip deck footwear — quick-release slides or water shoes, per industry standard, ready to kick off for immediate water entry. No street shoes, no bare feet on deck.
- Company property. All issued gear remains the property of 805 LifeGuard LLC. At the end of your employment, your kit is returned to your team lead — Jasen arranges collection with your final schedule. Ordinary wear and tear is expected; just bring it back.

The 805 standard on deck — branded shirt, guard shorts, rescue buoy in hand.

PRIVATE FAMILIES, PRIVATE LIVES

Our clients include private families, estates, and venues who choose us specifically because we are discreet. Confidentiality is not a policy footnote here — it is the product.

- Client identity is confidential. Names, addresses, schedules, guests, and anything you observe on assignment are never shared outside the Company's need-to-know — not with friends, not online, not ever.
- No photos on assignment. You do not photograph clients, their guests, their children, or their property. Company imagery is produced only through arranged, consented shoots — never candidly, never of minors.
- Social media. Do not post from, about, or in identifiable view of a client engagement.
- Speak for the deck, not the Company. Pricing, scheduling, and service questions route to management — give the client a warm “let me connect you with Jasper” rather than an improvised answer.

WHEN SOMETHING GOES WRONG

- Safety first, always — respond per your training and the emergency action plan.
- Then call it in. Any incident, injury, near-miss, or client concern is reported to your team lead the same day, however small it seems. We fix what we know about.
- Never negotiate on the deck. Complaints, refunds, and disputes are management's job — your job is grace under pressure and a prompt phone call.

WHO'S WHO

- Jasper van der Zwaan — Founder & Managing Director. Client relationships, engagements, standards.
- Jasen Juarez — Director of Aquatic Operations & Team Lead for all engagements. Scheduling, deck leadership, ETA texts, and shift check-ins — Jasen is your first call, every time.
- Your protocol card — issued per engagement; read it before every shift. When in doubt, the card wins.

WHAT WE PAY ATTENTION TO

Your offer documents describe the introductory period formally. Practically, these are the four things the Company watches — and the four things strong guards make look easy:

- Certifications current. American Red Cross Lifeguarding, CPR/AED, First Aid — verifiable, unexpired.
- Reliability. Attendance, punctuality, check-in/check-out discipline, responsiveness to scheduling.
- Client conduct. The 805 Standard and your protocol card, on every assignment.
- Water skills. Completion and maintenance of the Company's in-water skills assessment.

GROWING WITH US

805 LifeGuard is deliberately small, deliberately nimble — and deliberately growing. Every market we add and every season we book creates room, and that room is offered first to the people already on our decks.

- A family built on trust. We hold each other's confidence the way we hold our clients' — earn it, keep it, and it compounds.
- Performance opens doors. Senior assignments, lead roles, and new-market opportunities go to the guards who make the standard look easy.
- Growth is shared. As the company grows, the opportunities grow with the people who grew it.

GOOD TO KNOW

- We are an equal-opportunity employer and proud to welcome veterans to the team.
- Employment terms — pay, scheduling, at-will status — live in your offer letter and its companion documents; if this package and those documents ever appear to differ, the signed documents control.
- Questions? Ask early. A question on day one beats a habit on day thirty.

A RESPECTFUL DECK, ALWAYS

- Zero tolerance for harassment or discrimination of any kind — on our decks, in our threads, at our events. Full policy in your offer packet; the standard applies from day one.
- Two doors, always open. Something wrong? Tell Jasen. If it involves Jasen — or you'd simply rather not — come straight to Jasper: jasper@805lifeguard.com · (805) 367-6432. Every report is taken seriously and handled discreetly.
- It runs both directions. If a client or guest crosses a line with you, step back, stay professional, and call it in immediately. You will never be penalized for reporting.

PAY, BREAKS & IF YOU'RE HURT

- Your check-ins are your timecard. Hours, rates, and paydays are stated in your offer letter.
- Breaks are real. Meal and rest breaks per California law for your shift length — coordinate with Jasen so the water stays covered while you take them.
- Sick leave accrues. Seasonal W-2 staff earn California paid sick leave; details in your offer packet.
- Hurt on shift? Tell Jasen immediately, however minor — workers' compensation covers you, and same-day reporting protects your claim.

CAN'T MAKE A SHIFT?

- The moment you know, Jasen knows. Call or text him directly — the earlier, the better.
- Sick is sick. Nobody guards a pool unwell; tell him at the earliest possible hour and rest.
- Subs run through Jasen only. No guard-to-guard swaps — a shift isn't covered until he says it's covered.

BEFORE YOUR FIRST SHIFT

Six small things, and you're deck-ready:

- ☐ Certifications verified and current (we run the Red Cross lookup with you at offer).
- ☐ Sizes emailed — shirt, shorts, swimsuit if applicable (page 4).
- ☐ Bio emailed — write-up and photo (page 8).
- ☐ Protocol card read for your assignment — when a card and a habit disagree, the card wins.
- ☐ Kit issued and in hand — shirt, shorts, buoy, first-aid kit, whistle, hat.
- ☐ EAP walked at the venue with your check-in text — address, AED, plan.

CLIENTS MEET YOU BEFORE YOU ARRIVE

Every 805 guard has a profile page on our website — our proposals link to them, and families read them before you ever reach the deck. Yours gets built from two things you send us; for the house style, see:
805lifeguard.com/jasen · 805lifeguard.com/jaden · 805lifeguard.com/michael

- The write-up. 100–150 words about you — your certifications, your history in and around the water, the markets you'll serve, and one line that's genuinely you. We polish it into the house style.
- The photo. One recent, sharp, vertical (portrait) photo of just you — good light, no sunglasses. An 805-branded collared polo is preferred (athletic wear works if yours hasn't been issued yet). A photo you own the rights to; phone cameras are fine, we handle sizing.
- How to send. Email both to jasper@805lifeguard.com with the subject “Bio — Your Name” within your first two weeks — your kit sizes (page 4) can ride along in the same email.
- Your approval, always. Nothing publishes until you've seen your finished page and okayed it.

Welcome aboard — we saved you a seat in the sun.

“You said yes to this team, and that means something — we don't hire many people, so when we do, we mean it. Ahead of you: early mornings, hot decks, and some of the most beautiful pools in California — private estates, high-end venues, and now and then a familiar face you'll be far too professional to mention. Somewhere in that summer is a first save, and a parent who thanks you like you handed their kid back — because you did. You're going to be good at this. On the days you're not sure, call us — no one here guards alone. Until then, guard every pool as if the family watching you were your own — because to someone, they are.”

With confidence in you,
